HERE IS SOMETHING FOR ALL OF US.

FIGURES published in Railroad Data for September 8, contain information that should cheer millions of people.

Net railway operating income was shown to be $216,704,345 in the first seven months of 1933, compared with $120,900,560 for the same period of 1932. This was a return of 1.64 per cent on the properties, instead of 0.91 per cent in 1932.

While the return so far this year is far below any reasonable figure, the fact that it is more than 50 per cent above last year, is an encouraging sign.

Just think what it would mean to this country if the railroads were placed in a position where they could earn a "fair return." Hundreds of thousands of new jobs would be created on railroads and in other industries which furnish hundreds of millions of dollars worth of supplies annually to our transportation systems.

Every citizen in the United States has a very definite interest in railroad prosperity for it affects the earning power and pocketbook of each of us.

POPULAR INTEREST BROADENS.

THE interest shown in national affairs by people all over the country is not mysterious. Almost everything nowadays is linked with Washington, where new regulations and new laws are being administered in an effort to guide the nation back to better days.

There was a time when readers of The Echo were inclined to pay little attention to events beyond their county seat, or at most, the state capital. This day has passed. The radio has given many farm homes new interests in the matter of news, as well as amusements, and the automobile has widened the limits of travel, so that the boundaries of fifty years ago are being like those of today.

RECOVERY DEPENDS UPON FARMERS.

MANUFACTURERS and business men should realize that they cannot prosper "unless buying power is restored directly to the millions of farm producers."

The statement is taken from a brief submitted to the President by agricultural leaders last week. Farmers and their families constitute almost one-half of the buyers of the country. They have been unable to buy in normal volume for years and are now in need of tremendous replacements. They will gladly buy if they can get the money from their crops.

OUR FUTURE SPEED.

FASTER and faster man pilots his airplanes through the sky. Col. Roscoe Turner now holds the world's record for 2,250 miles by virtue of flying from Los Angeles to New York in 10 hours 5 minutes 30 seconds.

The average citizen of Bay St. Louis looks at these figures with just about the same detachment that an earlier generation read about "mile-a-minute" speeds in automobile races. Few of us thought then that we would ever ride at sixty miles an hour and few of us think now we will ever fly at 270 miles per hour.

A TRAGIC JOKE.

IT is something of a tragic joke to be reminded that in many states half of the school teachers will receive less than $8 a week on a yearly basis.

This is the figure given by Charles A. Lee, president of an educational group.

That the teacher employed to train the future generation in often paid less than the subsistence wage of those on relief rolls indicates that there is something rotten in the social structure and we don't mean maybe.

PREFER INTELLIGENT GIRLS.

HERE'S a break for the intelligent maiden. Statistics at Iowa State show that the "beautiful but dumb" creature is running second best in the matrimonial race. Of 125 couples whose engagements were announced at the college it is found that the men, intentionally or not, choose girls of equal or superior mental ability. More engagements were made among students of higher intelligence than among those of lower standing.

PREDICT "COLD WINTER."

HERE'S the first "colder winter" prediction. The gas engineers of Chicago declare that every winter up to 1937 will be gradually colder. They base their forecast on heating bills for the last fifty years which show a cycle of cold winters approaching.

Now if we can hear from the man who each year sees the birds start "south" earlier than usual and the trapper who finds heavier fur on animals the matter will be settled—all except buying and paying for the coal to be used.

FIRE PREVENTION AIDS RECOVERY PROGRAM.

FOR the first eight months of 1933 the National Board of Fire Underwriters estimates the national fire loss at $224,904,141, as compared with $310,078,321 for same period in 1932.

With such a wonderful start on reduction of fire losses for the year, Fire Prevention Week, which occurs from October 8 to 14, should give added impetus to the fire prevention movement and encourage the making of a record year for low fire losses. This would be a blessing to the nation in its recovery struggle.

Fire causes the loss of thousands of lives annually. Men lose jobs and wages, and government collects no taxes on burned buildings. It is estimated that 43 per cent of business houses which burn annually, do not resume operations. Insurance costs are based on fire losses—whether your own property burns or not, you pay insurance because it is part of the cost of operation in all business.

Let every man and woman be their own fire inspector—look at the heating plant, clean up the basement, take trash out of the attic, dispose of oil or paint covered rags, keep hot ashes out of combustible containers, fix wiring connections and check a hundred things they can do to prevent fire. Be careful of matches and smoking.

Farmers should be doubly concerned about fire and use every preventable measure possible, because they have little protection once a fire is started.

Fire Prevention Week draws attention to the importance of fire prevention and activities against the fire hazard should continue throughout the year.

Fire destroys life, property, progress and prosperity.

THE DEATH GLARE.

IN a Kentucky cemetery there is a grave stone erected for P. H. Nolan, Assistant State Game Warden. After reciting the facts of his career, it is stated on the marble, "The accident was caused by the glaring lights of a passing automobile."

The time is coming soon, says the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, when glaring lights will be outlawed. Many municipalities, and some states, are prescribing rules for the regulation of the lights.

In a recent survey conducted by the Travelers Insurance Company, it is set forth that from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. in 1932, there were 409,100 accidents in which 13,500 persons were killed, or 32 for every 1,000 accidents. From 6 p. m. to 6 a. m. there were 336,200 accidents, but 15,500 deaths, or 46 per 1,000. In other words, the rate per accident was 43.7 per cent worse during darkness than in daylight. The figures would have been still more unfavorable if they had started at 5 p. m. instead of 6 p. m., particularly in winter.

Automobile accidents during dusk and darkness are more likely to result in serious injuries and death because vision is reduced by inadequate illumination and because headlight glare from approaching cars momentarily blinds drivers.

Engineering societies are working on headlight codes and automobile manufacturers are working out devices to prevent direct rays of headlights from striking eyes of motorists, the object being to reduce the "glare hazard" to a minimum. If this problem can be solved, an important contribution to safety will have been made.

AUTO SPEEDER MUST BE CURBED.

A SOCIETY for the prevention of automobile speeding would find more scope for accomplishment than many of the reform movements that have harassed the individual and public as well for many a year.

Statistics tell that not one passenger traveling railroad during last year was killed. Those killed were employees. This is a remarkable record for a country as large as ours and with its many railroad ramifications.

Automobile statistics show the number of deaths appalling. Seventy a day for a certain period is the country's record.

This, in nearly every instance is due to speeding or fast driving call it as you will. And only too often the innocent is victim. Only last week a Bay St. Louis resident and family were hurt in a car that was wrecked by a driver going thru the streets of Hattiesburg at a speed estimated 60 miles an hour.

No prohibitionists can show from drink a death rate in alarming ratio as this. Something must be done. And why not the reformers who might put into use much of their ability and energy into a cause with bigger result?

The speed demon is at large. The average irresponsible small truck driver is another menacing danger. We have them in Bay St. Louis and over every nook and corner in this expansive country of ours.

Every speedster should be arrested by local and road policemen. No license, one light, parking overtime and cars parked in opposite to prescribed directions are negligible compared to the danger of the lunatic who is running autos and trucks seemingly without reason.

SMALL HOPE FOR WILL'S HOPE.

WHILE flying over Hoover Dam on a recent air trip from Chicago to the Coast, Will Rogers dropped off his daily message to newspapers. One of his remarks was:

"Hope they didn't irrigate more land so they can raise more things they can't sell, and will have to plow up more rows, kill more pigs to keep 'em from becoming hogs."

Our politicians still talk glibly of pouring new millions into irrigation schemes to make more farms out of waste land and deserts, thus boosting over-production of agricultural crops, which another group of politicians will expect the taxpayers to pay for, to bring about farm relief.

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHILLING
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

LEISURE.

MR. JOHN W. DAVIS is either very clever, or very dumb, and it is impossible, at this distance, to know which. He made a remark a few weeks ago to the effect that the working day should not be less than eight hours, because there was too much danger that the common people would not use their additional leisure to good advantage. The newspapers continue to comment on this absurd dictum. If Mr. Davis was intending to rouse prejudice against the N. R. A. and to divert attention from a very practical problem to a purely academic discussion, then he was very clever and successful. If he was expressing his real opinion he was, like so many others, thinking in nineteenth century terms, instead of twentieth, and ignoring results which his clients have had such a large share in producing.

Mr. Davis is probably as perfect a type of the aristocratic mind as this country can produce. He was Democratic candidate for President nine years ago, but he is no more a democrat than the Duke of Wellington. An ambassador to the Court of St. James; he was a leader in the socially exclusive diplomatic set. As counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co., he is one of the inner circle of financiers who direct American industry and trade. If he has any points of contact with the proletariat they are not generally known. His remark is significant as indicating the mental attitude of a small, but very powerful class.

The twentieth century fact that makes the idea of Mr. Davis so out-of-date and foolish is that there is not eight hours of common labor to be done in this modern world of super-power and automatic machinery. Even in the boom years of 1928 and 1929 the problem of technological unemployment was serious, and growing worse. With the collapse of the old economic order it became vitally important. The question to worry about is not at all of the wise use of extra hours of leisure by the unemployed, but of the use of twenty-four hours of enforced leisure by the unemployed. If Mr. Davis has not grasped that elementary fact, then he has a lesson to learn in the not distant future.

The arithmetic of the problem is elementary. It is not at all difficult for the upper classes to keep a certain fraction of the people in misery. Years ago they used to talk about "the submerged tenth." But it is exceptionally difficult, especially in a modern democracy, to let that fraction become too large. At present about one-fourth of all of our workers are unemployed, at leisure twenty-four hours a day. There is a very real danger that this proportion may increase to one-half, or even more. That is something to trouble us, and especially to trouble multi-millionaires and their advisers. That kind of leisure is apt to lead, not so much to foolishness, as to destructiveness.

The N. R. A. attacks the problem by dividing up the work to be done, that is by shortening hours without reducing pay. It is the mildest, most conservative measure that can easily be imagined. The president is introducing it very conservatively, with extraordinary tact and consideration for the class which Mr. Davis represents. If these very rich men were as intelligent and well-informed as they think they are they would be supporting him with the loudest cheers they could give.

It should not be forgotten that the only people on whom this administration has yet "cracked down," are the old soldiers, who are merely a lot of cheap grafters, and so not in Mr. Davis' class at all, either financially or socially. Retired officers, like Generals Pershing and Harbord and Admiral Byrd, retain their pensions. It is the blankety-blank buck private that loses everything. Moreover this measure was devised and recommended by men of Mr. Davis' own type.

Thomas Jefferson or Andrew Jackson might very possibly abolish the stock exchanges and tax the big banks out of existence. Such a man, and such action, might be far more popular in the country at large than at the corner of Wall and Broad streets.

It might easily be possible to return to the conditions of 1913, and to give every worker employment, by placing a stiff tax on power and on automatic machinery, thus raising their relative cost. This would wreck some of Mr. Morgan's companies, and would cause a great commotion on the stock exchange, but it would solve the unemployment problem, along with that of the deficit, which might be even more important. Even such a measure would be conservative compared with socialism, or with confiscation, and both of these have many advocates.

Many men and women will waste their leisure time. Others will always work long hours because they enjoy the work for its own sake. Among these we shall find, as we have in the past, our leaders, our managers, our scientists, technicians and professional workers. But Henry Ford is wiser in his generation than John W. Davis. He once said, in effect, that it was good business to pay workers enough so that they could be customers for motor-cars, and then to give them leisure to use those cars. That is intelligent philosophy, necessary philosophy if our system of mass production is not to break down, and it is the philosophy of the N. R. A.

PERFECT WEATHER HAILS FINAL MONTH WORLD'S FAIR CARD

Exposition Ends Oct. 31;
Late Crowds Swell Attendance.

In less than a month what promises to be the greatest of all World's Fairs, from the point of attendance will come to a close.

Repeated suggestions and wild rumors that A Century of Progress Exposition will remain open longer, possibly through next year, are entirely without foundation, say Fair officials. The exposition will be definitely closed after October 31, according to Rufus C. Dawes, president, and Major Lenox R. Lohr, general manager.

Last minute rush of millions who have not seen it, and more who want a last glimpse, combined with a host of unusual and spectacular features planned for the month, is expected to result in record-breaking crowds during the final month.

A review of weather forecast for October indicates that ideal weather will prevail for the millions who will avail themselves of the cool, crisp, delightful "Indian Summer" days to visit the Fair.

Heading the great card for the second week in the month is Chicago Day, Monday, October 9. This event on the same date in 1893 drew 750,000 people to the World's Columbian Exposition. All leading religious and National groups of the city will assemble for a program in the Court of the Hall of Science at 11 a. m. Band concerts and choral music will take up most of the afternoon. At night there will be an international water carnival and a gigantic fireworks display, commemorating the Chicago Fire. A special program on the stage of the Floating Theater in North Lagoon will last throughout the evening and until 2 a. m.

October 9 will also mark the opening of Autumn Festival Week at the Fair, with daily programs of band, concert, choral, instrumental and other music sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs.

A Century of Progress day will be celebrated Tuesday (October 10), with leading exhibitors and concessionaires parading their wares and shows about the Exposition grounds. The 1933 World's Fair will pay tribute to its glorious predecessor of forty years ago on Columbus Exposition Day, Wednesday, October 11. In the afternoon there will be reunion of the Columbian Guards, guide organization of the old Fair, and a parade of ancient in 1893 costumes. Passengers dressed in 1893 costumes, President Cleveland's speech at the old Fair will be re-enacted. A brilliant display of fireworks commemorating the 1893 Fair, including set pieces of the ferris wheel and "Little Egypt" will wind up the day.

Columbus Day, October 12. Columbus Day, Thursday, (October 12) will see commemorative programs by Italian national groups. It will also be Puerto Rico Day. Saturday, October 14, will open College Week, with special programs planned for various colleges and universities, and special tours arranged for college students. A concert by the United Polish National Chorus will feature Sunday, October 15.

A great crowd will undoubtedly see the football game between Northwestern and Stanford universities October 14. Florida Day will be the attraction October 18. October 21 will be New Jersey Day, and will also see a series of concerts by the University of Indiana band.

The visit of Dr. Hugo Eckener and the Graf Zeppelin will be one of the high spots of the month, probably on October 25. October 27 will be Navy Day; the International Automotive Trade Show assembly will be conducted October 29.

WITH THE STATE PRESS.

GOOD HIGHWAYS.

(Clarksdale Register.)

SENATOR PAT HARRISON—the "brilliant Pat"—in an address at Vicksburg suggested that federal highway funds be given to this state be used for completing a number of cross-state highways.

He declared that better highways are basic for progress and prosperity. And there never was a truer word spoken.

So long as Imperial Rome built her highways her greatness was unquestioned. But when she permitted the Goths and Vandals to tear up the Termini her greatness waned. When those highways were gulleys, ravines and ruts there was no longer the proud Eternal City.

We need highways and still more highways in Mississippi.

On every subject Senator Pat sees clearly. There is no clearer vision than that which he turns as to the necessity of extending these arteries of progress.

ELYSIUM.

(Clarksdale Register.)

A FLORIDA evangelist said there will be no divorces in heaven.

And Editor Sullivan is rather sarcastic about it. "No wonder," he said. "You must have a lawyer to get a divorce."

The Man of Galilee said there are no marriages or giving in marriage in heaven.

Swedenborg declared there is no such thing as marriage in Elysium. That may be since he also said that the angels of heaven "are continually

One Strand Won't Carry a Bridge

THE builder who expects one slim cable to hold up a great bridge is doomed to disappointment. The saver who expects a single deposit to support his plans for financial independence also faces failure. It takes many strands of wire, woven together, to carry the one. And a bridge across the gulf of Want needs many savings deposits, made regularly, to make it secure.

growing like the springtime of their youth."

Be facts as they may regarding this Isle of the Blessed placed by Homer, Heriod and Pindar on the Western Rim one may take it for granted that there are many things over there that are unheard of here and many things here unheard of over there.

It is our earnest belief that if there be an Elysium where mortals weep no more it will come about through a long and steady process of elimination of the things we cling to here.

Thousands of Trees Sent Out By State; To Be Exceeded in 1934

The State Forest Nursery at Perkinson Junior College delivered 118,844 forest tree seedlings during the past spring. Slash pine sales led with 65,426, followed by Black Locust with 25,400. Other species sent out were Longleaf Pine, Loblolly Pine and Shortleaf Pine. The largest purchase was made by the State Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning, which obtained 50,000 Slash Pine seedlings. These were set out on the University State Forest under the direction of the State Forestry Commission. The Commission, the College and the U. S. Forest Service cooperate in maintaining the nursery. The supply of seedlings for planting during the first few months of 1934 will be somewhat larger than in 1933.

There seems to be no occasion for turning all the brains of the land loose on the cause of bad times. An investigator claims to have discovered that the two things most deadly to business are rain and a parade. If that is true, the way to success lies in opening a store in the heart of the Sahara desert.

In April, this railroad announced that it would conduct a six months' experimental period of drastic passenger fare reductions, lowering its rates to 2¢ per mile in coaches and 2½¢ per mile each way for round trip tickets for transportation in parlor and sleeping cars, and 3½¢ a mile for transportation in Pullmans where one-way tickets are bought. (When parlor or sleeping cars are used, cost of space is extra). WINTER LEGUMES FOR SOIL IMPROVEMENT.

There is a great need for winter legumes for soil improvement. The following are the best for this purpose: Austrian Peas and Vetch must have 250 to 300 pounds acid phosphate per acre. This fertilizer should be applied separately and harrowed in for the reason if it comes in contact with the treated seed it will kill the inoculation.

Thirty to twenty-five pounds Austrian Peas and or 20 to 25 pounds Vetch seed are required to plant an acre. Further information regarding the planting and value of these crops for soil improvement furnished upon application to this office.

"MIDNIGHT MARY" CARRIES STRONG DRAMATIC WALLOP

Loretta Young, Ricardo Cortez and Franchot Tone Score in Melodrama Story.

A smashing dramatic punch in every few minutes of the fast-moving action is offered in "Midnight Mary," drama of crookdom at the A. & G. Theatre this Sunday and Monday. Build-up of dramatic tension is accomplished by a novel introduction of Loretta Young and Una Merkel in leading roles as twelve-year-old children. Their costuming and action is played against backgrounds built in proportions to make them look smaller.

A Convincing Portrayal. Loretta Young delivers the most convincing role of her entire career, combining the delicate pathos of her role in "Life Begins" with the physical allure of her recent triumph in "Employees Entrance."

In one of the "heaviest" screen portrayals in recent months Ricardo Cortez gives a powerful performance that is packed with menace from the minute he appears on the screen.

Franchot Tone again scores an outstanding hit to follow his brilliant portrayals in "Today We Live" and "Glad to Be Here."

The romantic interest between one and Miss Young is well sustained through a series of thrilling events. Sparkling comedy that serves to lighten heavier moments is ably provided by Una Merkel as Miss Young's girlhood friend who finds smooth coasting on the "easiest way."

Has Smash Climax. Andy Devine also provides much hilarious comedy with his portrayal of a young man about town who continually gets into trouble.

KILN HIGH HOLDS C. C. M. A. TO SCORELESS TIE.

Although outwitted man to man Kiln High held C. C. M. A. to a scoreless tie Friday afternoon before a large crowd of spectators. Kiln led by Captain Harvey Peterson, fought G. C. M. A. to standstill thru the entire game.

Captain Spivey was G. C. M. A.'s only effective ground gainer against the Kiln's forward wall and around end.

G. C. M. A. aerial attack could do nothing with the Kiln backs. Quarterback Percy Garriga did some neat trickery in dodging the honor with his team captain in playing a good game.

At the start of the second quarter G. C. M. A. began to click when Whitmore completed a pass to Spivey and Spivey tossed one to Whitmore placing the ball in Kiln's 25 yard line. Spivey hit the line for nine yards and Whitmore made one at center for first down on Kiln's 15 yard line. Then a long pass by Whitmore to Spivey fell incomplete. This was their last chance to score.

DR. F. S. PEPPERDENE, X-RAY MARTYR, DIES AT HOME IN QUEBEC

Was Last Survivor of Group Of Britishers Who Began Study of Ray in 1896.

Quebec, Sept. 26.—Dr. Frank S. Pepperdene, said to have been the last surviving member of the fearless pioneer group of British medical men who started to study the X-ray's actions in 1896, is dead here at the age of 71, a martyr to science. Death was due to cancer.

His suffering was due to his research work. Between 1911 and 1932 he underwent thirteen operations, which cost him his left arm and right hand.

Dr. Pepperdene was one of the first three X-ray experts in Great Britain, but he never boasted about his work and even tore up a dozen or so diplomas and degrees awarded him by colleges and universities.

In 1911, after he lost his left arm, Dr. Pepperdene came to Canada, in virtual retirement. Two years later he resumed his research work as radiologist for the National Sanatorium Association of Canada. He continued his investigations until 1929, when failing strength caused him to retire.

Last year, on hearing of the death of Dr. Harvey Smith of London, he remarked: "He must be almost the last of the originals. My turn is next."

Operation after operation on the right hand followed in an effort to halt the cancer, but he finally lost it. Last February he came to Quebec to spend his final days with his son, the Rev. F. L. Pepperdene.

Dr. Pepperdene requested that no public notice should be made of his death.

Was Father of Bay Resident. The foregoing, taken from the New York Times, as indicated over the date line, tells of the death of the distinguished father of our townsman, Mr. Kenneth W. Pepperdene, who resides with his family on the South Beach. He died at 71. Dr. Pepperdene received the message of his distinguished father's death last week.

Mrs. J. E. Smith, Mrs. W. C. Smith, Mrs. Joseph Dedcaux, Mrs. Malina Dedcaux, Mrs. Josephine Lizana, Mrs. Olen Anderson, Mrs. John Harrier, Miss Doccia Neacise.

The problem of the meeting was, working over furniture. On old Sewing Machine was made new, by the use of varnish remover, varnish and enamel, furniture polish and wax made by the class.

These meetings will be held Wednesday of each week at 7 o'clock. We invite all those interested to meet with us.

—Mrs. John A. Wogan left last week, returning to New Orleans where she is coxily and attractively domiciled in General Pershing street, after spending the season at her summer home in Second street near Carroll avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Tobin H. Underwood, son Tobin, Jr., and daughters, Misses Jack and Jehane, after spending the summer in Bay St. Louis, returned to their home in New Orleans a few days ago for the winter season.

—Philip Haydel and family of Picayune, Miss., have moved to Bay St. Louis and are domiciled in the cottage formerly occupied by J. Toca as his family home, Carroll avenue. Residing here formerly, Mr. Haydel is no stranger, well acquainted in this section and over the county.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Caron and family left Tuesday for New Orleans, after spending the summer and part of the early fall at their summer villa on the beach, at St. Charles street. Their beautiful home is always an object of attraction and admiration to visitors and others who view it with satisfaction.

—Mr. and Mrs. August Carriere of Chicago have arrived for the winter and have taken one of the Carriere villas on the Waveland beach, planning to spend their time here and in New Orleans, at the latter place from time to time.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lucien M. Gex and children returned home Monday from a week-end visit to relatives in New Orleans, and incidentally visiting the big circus there at the time. Mrs. Sidney W. Prague and children also joined the party at the circus.

—Mr. J. J. Martin, residing in Main street, and a veteran of the Spanish-American war, who suffered a stroke last week, was taken to the new government veterans' hospital at Biloxi Wednesday morning, his condition unchanged. Mr. Martin is a well-known resident and father of Mrs. O. T. Arnold.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Badon motored to McComb Sunday where they spent the day. A feature of the visit was to participate in a family reunion of the Badon family which is quite large and visiting in separate sections. They report a most enjoyable trip and visit.

—Mr. and Mrs. T. Kickham, residing in Jeff Davis avenue, have gone to Hot Springs, Ark., where they will spend a while "taking the baths" at the government's famous curative springs. Visiting Hot Springs at one of the best seasons of the year, they report, it is a wonderful place.

—Mrs. Albert Gaspard and Miss Geraldine Ames who recently purchased the lot corner DeMontuzin avenue and Front street are planning to build a small cottage thereon, in the near future for their own occupancy.

—Miss Melanie de Ben is in receipt of a letter from the Asheville, (N. C.) Chamber of Commerce, thanking her for services and acknowledging her artistic ability displayed in performances given at Asheville during the summer. A similar letter from the Hendersonville Chamber of Commerce was also recently received.

—Attorney W. J. Gex, Sr., returned from Tulsa, Oklahoma, during the week, to which place he was called by a client claiming vast interests in oil producing lands and, which claims are sustained by the facts in the case. It is a major case and one in which quite fortune is involved.

—Prof. C. E. Craft, Bay St. Louis member of Rotary Club, and principal of DeLaine School was the program speaker of the Rotary Club at the supper meeting Tuesday evening at The Answer, presenting an interesting talk on schools of this section and education in general. It was one of the best talks of a like series before the club by different speakers.

—Reporting a successful season, the Peerless Ice Cream establishment, located opposite Echo Building, closed its business for the winter Sunday night. Manager Stone expressed gratification of the patronage accorded and says the location for such business is well established. People from away, visiting for the summer remember it from other seasons. Mr. Stone wishes to express his appreciation and thanks to one and all who responded to his efforts to serve and please.

—Carrying a walking cane was quite a fad until a few years ago. Every gentleman more or less carried a cane. The chief presentation made to a gentleman marking an occasion of almost any kind was the presentation of a gold headed cane, appropriately inscribed. Today this seems a lost gesture of appreciation. However, our local Post Master is going to initiate the return of the walking stick—in Bay St. Louis, at least. He is particularly fond of walking, enjoys the exercise and says it gives him closer contact to people. He carries a stick that was cut from the orange grove of Frank Ruellio some twenty years ago. It is seasoned strong and substantial. He says a stick is company in addition to support and assistance. Visitors to Chicago World's Fair return with their walking cane that served them so well getting over the grounds and buildings.

—County Agent R. H. Bryson of this county was the victim of an auto collision at Hattiesburg late Friday afternoon when he was injured to the extent that several stitches were taken in his lower lip and he was badly bruised and marked. He says another car driven at an apparent rate of sixty miles an hour within the city limits of Hattiesburg caught him unawares and wrecked his car. His family was with him and they too were victims of the crash, receiving minor flesh wounds and a general shaking up.

—A successful meeting—the first of the year—of St. Stanislaus Mothers' Club was held Sunday at 1 o'clock afternoon, with Mrs. Edmund F. Fahy, president, presiding. The attendance was noted for its numbers and general satisfaction was expressed at such manifestation of interest. Among matters considered was changing the hour of monthly meeting in future from 1 to 2:30 o'clock. This change will be unanimously welcomed.

—W. A. Staehle opened his Regal Cafe for business Saturday and not only reports a liberal patronage and encouraging reception from the public but a satisfactory business from day to day. "I am well satisfied with the success of my venture so far," said Mr. Staehle and I hope in time to meet a most popular demand, not only from visitors but home folks as well.
